PROJECTS

1.weather Forecast

Weather prediction is the application of science and technology to predict the state of theatmosphere for a given location. Here this system will predict weather based on parameters such as temperature, humidity and wind. This system is a web application with effective graphical user interface.

2.Glaucoma Detection using CNN

This project focuses on automatic glaucoma screening using CDR from 2D fundus images. In this proposed approach, preprocessing such as image filtration, color contrast enhancement are performed which is followed by a combined approach for image segmentation and classification using texture, thresholding and morphological operation. Multimodalities including K-Means clustering, Gabor wavelet transformations are also used to obtain accurate boundary delineation.

Personal Skills

- Passion to learn new Technologies.
- Good interaction skills, ability to coordinate and work within a team.
- Sound ability to concentrate and accomplish tasks despite interruptions.
- Proficient communication skill, ability to present points precisely and clearly
